EXPLANATIONS OF TABLES AND CLASSIFICATION OF COUNTRIES IN SECTION I.

EXPLANATION OF TABLES.

The statements of general imports, Tables Nos. 3, 4, and 5, embrace imported articles entered at the custom-houses for immediate consumption and imported articles entered for warehouse. The statements of imports entered for consumption, Tables Nos. 24 to 25 and 26, embrace imported articles entered for immediate consumption and imported articles withdrawn from warehouse for consumption. The statement of general imports and the statement of imports entered for consumption for any period will always differ to the extent that the value of entries for warehouse for the period differs from the value of withdrawals from warehouse for consumption. The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the import entry made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods have been actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer, and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion. Portions of these goods are subsequently exported.

OFFICIAL VALUES.

1. Value of imports: The values of imported articles in this report are those which they bore in the markets of the foreign countries from which they were imported. The act of March 3, 1883, excluded from the dutiable value the following costs and charges, which prior to that act had formed a part of the dutiable value of imports, viz:

"The cost of transportation, shipment, and transshipment, with all the expenses included, from the place of growth, production, or manufacture, whether by land or water, to the vessel in which shipment is made to the United States; the value of the usual and necessary sacks, crates, boxes, or covering of any kind in which such merchandise is contained; commission at the usual rates, but in no case less than 2½ per centum, and brokerage, export duty, and all other actual or usual charges for putting up, preparing, and packing for transportation or shipment."

Under this system of valuation, the value of imported commodities landed on our wharves is less than their actual cost or value to the importer by the amount of the above costs and charges and the cost of freight on the goods from the last foreign port whence they were shipped to the United States. The item of freight from the last foreign port of shipment to the United States, however, has never been included in the dutiable value. The difference in methods of valuation of imports should be considered in any comparison made between the official values of imports of merchandise for years prior to July 1, 1883, and for years subsequent to that date.

The values shown in the statements both of general imports and of imports entered for consumption are mainly unappraised values; that is, values as shown by the invoices prior to liquidation of entries.

2. Foreign export values: Tables Nos. 13 to 17, sometimes called "foreign exports," or "re-exports," exhibit exports of foreign merchandise which had been imported. The value of such commodities exported "from warehouse" is the value which they bore in the foreign markets whence they were imported into the United States—in other words, their import value (see value of imports above). The value of such commodities exported "not from warehouse" (that is, goods not under bond), comprising free goods mainly, is the value at the ports of the United States whence they are exported.

3. Domestic exports: Tables Nos. 8 to 12, inclusive, exhibit the exports of articles of purely domestic product or manufacture; also, exports of commodities of foreign origin which have been changed from the form in which they were imported, or enhanced in value by manufacture in the United States; such as sugar refined in this country from imported raw sugar, flour ground from imported wheat, and articles and utensils made from imported metals, etc. The value of exports of domestic merchandise is their market value at the time of exportation in the ports of the United States whence they are exported to foreign countries.

4. Value of foreign merchandise in transit or transshipped: Tables Nos. 18 and 19 exhibit foreign merchandise brought to the United States for immediate transit across the territory of the United States to a foreign country, or for transshipment in the ports of the United States to a foreign country. The value of commodities as shown in these tables is their value in the foreign markets whence they were brought to the United States, their official value being similar to that of imports.

5. Value of warehoused merchandise: Tables Nos. 21, 22, and 23 exhibit warehoused imported merchandise. This merchandise has already appeared in the statements of general imports, Tables Nos. 3, 4, and 5, for the year during which it was imported, in the total values "entered for warehouse." The official values of the articles therein represented are the same as the import values above described.

DEFECTS IN EXPORTS.

6. The statistics of exports of domestic commodities to Mexico and to Canada by land are defective, owing to the fact that there is no law requiring railway companies to furnish to collectors of customs statistics of domestic merchandise transported over their roads to these foreign countries. It is estimated that our exports to the Dominion of Canada during the year ending June 30, 1885, as contained herein, are deficient upwards of $20,000,000. No official returns of imports into Mexico from the United States can be obtained for a recent year upon which to base a reliable estimate as to the deficiency in value of our official returns of exports to Mexico.

CLASSIFICATION OF ARTICLES IMPORTED AND EXPORTED.

7. Tables Nos. 5 and 15 exhibit the condensed classification of articles for the statements of general imports and exports of foreign articles; and Table No. 24 exhibits the most extended classification of articles according to which the statements of imports entered for consumption are compiled and published, the latter classification being reducible to the former. Statements of general imports by countries and by customs districts are compiled only according to the former classification, the latter being too extended to admit of the compilation of imported articles by countries and by customs districts with so much detail within the time when such statistics would be valuable in the current business of the country. Table No. 10 exhibits the classification of domestic articles exported.

8. The word ton, wherever used in tables of imports, indicates the long ton of 2,240 pounds, and the hundred-weight represents 112 pounds.

IN REGARD TO

THE FOREIGN COMMERCE OF THE UNITED STATES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Bureau of Statistics, November 16, 1887.

SIR: I have the honor to submit to you the following report in regard to the foreign commerce of the United States for the year ending June 30, 1887:

GENERAL VIEW OF OUR FOREIGN COMMERCE.

The value of the foreign commerce of the last fiscal year, when compared with that of the fiscal year 1885–'86, shows an increase of $93,542,013 in imports and exports of merchandise.

There has been an increase of $36,658,381 in the value of the exports of merchandise and an increase of $56,883,632 in the value of the imports of merchandise. The value of our exports of merchandise has exceeded the value of the imports $23,863,443, the former being $716,183,211, and the latter $692,319,768.

There was a decrease of $33,251,004 in the exports of gold and an increase of $22,167,252 in the imports thereof, the excess of the imports over exports of gold amounting to $33,209,414 as against an excess of exports over imports of gold of $22,208,842 during the fiscal year 1886.

The inward and outward movement of silver during the fiscal year 1887 was about the same as during the preceding fiscal year, the excess of exports being $9,036,310 during 1887 as against an excess of exports of $11,660,912 in 1886.

The countries with which our foreign trade has increased or declined, and the articles and classes of articles in which the increase or decrease in the imports or exports occurred during the last fiscal year, are fully set forth in the analysis of our foreign commerce which appears in the following pages of this report.

The value of our import and export trade reached its highest point in 1881, when it amounted to $1,545,000,000; it declined to $1,314,900,000 in 1886, but increased again to $1,408,500,000 in 1887.

The following table shows the imports and exports for each year from 1881 to 1887 inclusive, and the increase or decrease in the imports, exports, and the total values thereof, respectively. The decline in the value of our commerce has occurred principally in our exports, the imports of each year except 1885 and 1886 being in excess of the imports of 1881.

The recent decline in the total value of our imports and exports has, as stated in previous reports, been to a considerable extent caused by the decline in prices at home and abroad, as will appear from an examination of the following tables of import and export prices of commodities, but that the volume of trade has also declined is apparent from an examination of table on page 2, showing the comparative decline in the value of imports and exports from 1881 to 1887 and of the tonnage engaged in its transportation during the same period. The decline in the tonnage movement is more marked than would be expected when the effect of the decline in prices is considered (see tables on pages 4 to 7), but it is probable that improved methods of transportation, of packing for lading on board vessels of cotton, hay, flour, sugar, and other bulky articles has enabled vessels to carry more weight than formerly.

COMPARATIVE DECREASE OF THE QUANTITIES AND VALUES OF EXPORTS, AND THE DECLINE OF PRICES.

When we compare the quantities of the leading articles exported during the period of decline, the ratio of decrease in the quantities of the exports is much less than of the decline in values, indicating that the decrease in the total value of our foreign commerce has been to some extent caused by falling prices.

The following statement shows the quantities and values of domestic merchandise exported during the years ending June 30, 1887 and 1881, respectively, and presents a comparison of the percentages of decrease or increase in the quantities with the percentages of decrease or increase in the values of the same articles since 1881:

The decline in the prices of our staple commodities is shown in the following table of average annual export prices in currency of the domestic products named, since 1855. The value of articles named exported in 1887 embraced about 76 per cent. of the total value of our exports of domestic merchandise during that year.

The decline of prices in foreign countries is shown by the following table of the annual average prices of some of the leading articles of merchandise imported into the United States for each of the ten years ending June 30, from 1878 to 1887, inclusive. The articles named imported in 1887 comprised about 41 per cent. of the value of our imports during that year. The values or prices of the imported articles shown in this table are their values in the foreign markets whence they were imported;

From this table it appears that the value of our imports increased from 353.6 millions of dollars in 1860 to 692.3 millions in 1887, an increase of 96 per cent. Our imports from Europe increased from 216.6 millions in 1860 to 390.7 millions in 1887, an increase of 80 per cent. Our imports from North America increased from 67.9 millions to 130.7 millions, an increase of 93 per cent.; from South America, from 34.9 millions to 79.7 millions, an increase of 128 per cent.; from Asia and Oceanica, from 29.6 millions to 86.1 millions, an increase of 190 per cent.

Of the countries of Europe, our import trade with Germany shows a very marked increase, having risen from 18.5 millions of dollars in 1860 to 80.6 millions in 1887, an increase of 336 per cent.

It will also be seen that, considering the relative per cent. of imports from the various divisions and countries of the globe during the two periods above named, while 61 per cent. of our imports came from Europe in 1860, only 56 per cent. was imported therefrom in 1887; also that our imports from South America, including the West Indies, sustain about the same ratio to the imports from other countries that they did in 1860.

It will also be seen that the per cent. of our imports from Cuba, Porto Rico, and French West Indies fell off in a marked degree, but increased with respect to our imports from the British West Indies, Mexico, and Central America.

Our exports of domestic merchandise to the various grand divisions of the globe during the period from 1860 to 1887 increased from 316.2 millions to 703 millions, an increase of 122 per cent.; to Europe, from 241.2 millions to 567.9 millions, an increase of 135 per cent.; to South America, from 14.3 to 29.5, an increase of 106 per cent.; and to Asia and Oceanica, from 12.3 to 32.4, an increase of 162 per cent.

When we consider the ratio or per cent. of our exports to the various grand divisions and countries during the two periods above named, we find that Europe took 80.79 per cent. of our exports in the latter period, as against 76.28 in the former, and that North America took 9.83 per cent. in the latter period, as against 14.26 per cent. in the former. The other grand divisions appear to sustain about the same relative position in our export trade which they did in 1860.

Attention is called to the marked increase in our export trade to Great Britain and Germany, our exports to the United Kingdom having increased from 166 millions in 1860 to 363 millions in 1887, that Kingdom having taken 52.5 per cent. of our exports in 1860 and 51.61 per cent. of our exports in 1887, or over half of the exports of domestic merchandise from the United States to all countries. The value of exports to Germany increased from 12.68 millions in 1860 to 57.3 millions in 1887.

The year of our largest value of imports from, and of domestic exports to each country, is shown in the following table. The values of our imports from and exports to each country during the fiscal year 1887 will be found on pages 12 to 15, inclusive.

Leading articles of domestic export.

The following table exhibits (in the order of magnitude of the value for 1887) the articles of merchandise of domestic product and manufacture exported during the years ending June 30, 1881 and 1887, respectively. A comparison is made between the exports of 1881 and 1887, for the reason that the former was the year of largest exports. It will be observed that there was in 1887 a considerable increase in the values of mineral oils, tobacco and its manufactures, copper and manufactures thereof, and of sugar and molasses, while the values of animals, cotton, breadstuffs, provisions, distilled spirits, and quicksilver show a marked decline.

It will be observed, by reference to the following table, that our exports of the products of agriculture have consisted almost entirely of raw cotton, breadstuffs; provisions, including meats and dairy products, and leaf-tobacco,—these products during the fiscal year 1887 comprising 94 per cent. of the total value of the exports of all products of agriculture:

Exports of cotton.

The total quantity of unmanufactured cotton exported during the last fiscal year was 2,169,457,330 pounds, valued at $206,222,057, an increase of $1,136,415 as compared with the value of such exports during the preceding year, but a decrease in value of $41,473,689 as compared with the exports of cotton during the year 1881. The average price of raw cotton during the year 1881 was 11.2 cents per pound; the price declined to 10.6 cents in 1885, to 9.96 cents in 1886, and to 9.5 cents in the last fiscal year. Comparing the exports of the years 1887 and 1881, the decline in the quantity of cotton exported amounted to 9.8 per cent. and in the value to 16.7 per cent.

EXPORTS OF BREADSTUFFS AND FOREIGN COMPETITION.

The value of our exports of breadstuffs amounted during the last fiscal year to $165,768,662, an increase of $39,922,104 from the value of the exports of 1886, and a decrease of $104,563,857 from that of 1881.

Foreign competition.

The following table shows the competition we are meeting in the wheat markets of the world with the products of Russia, India, Australia, and the Argentine Republic, and our relative position to those countries in the export trade in wheat during the last five years.

In 1880 the countries named, together with the United States, exported 208,987,072 bushels, the share of which exported by the United States was 69.13 per cent. In 1884 the same countries exported 202,352,523 bushels, the share of which exported by the United States was only 40.34 per cent. Our portion of the exports of 1885 probably ran still lower.

The shipments of wheat exhibited by the following table are exported almost entirely to supply the European markets, and it will be observed how uniform was the annual demand during the period covered by the table.

The values shown must not be taken as an accurate standard of comparison, owing to the diversity of and fluctuations in the value of the currencies of the various countries.

The following report of the results of the late Vienna wheat-crop estimates, with deductions therefrom as given in the London Millers' Gazette, is of interest:

"The wheat crops of the world, as far as can be at present ascertained, have been very much larger in bulk than last year, the large increase in the European crops making up for the deficit in America and India. Perhaps the only semi-official estimates of the crops are those presented at the annual International Exhibition, Vienna, which was opened last Monday; but these estimates are necessarily of a vague character, from the fact that they are prepared too early in the season, viz, in the middle of August. Nevertheless, although in years past the actual outturn in the various countries has differed very materially from the estimates presented at Vienna, these estimates may be taken as an approximate guide of the world's production. The following figures show the estimates during the past three years presented at Vienna and will show, as above stated, that in most of the European countries the yield is decidedly superior to last year:

NOTE.—100 is taken to represent an average.

These figures afford a very concise estimate of the world's production during the past three years. It may be added that the estimates for India and America are our own. Possibly, however, the following table, which gives the official record of the production in the various countries during the years 1886 and 1885, from which the present year's yield is estimated, will be found still more interesting:

Thus the estimates for this year, which it will be remembered are but estimates, show the world's production to be about 64,000,000 bushels greater than last year, and about 104,000,000 bushels greater than in 1885. In this connection it is worthy of note that the average production in these countries during the five years preceding 1885 was estimated at about 2,200,000 bushels."

The estimated wheat surplus of the surplus-producing countries and deficiencies of those which will require importation of foreign wheat for consumption during the year 1887–'88 are, according to estimates of Mr. W. J. Harris and Mr. K. Kains-Jackson, the former of which estimates has been published in Mark Lane Express and the latter in Dornbusch's Evening List, as follows:

Other estimates worthy of credence place the exportable surplus of wheat at about 250,000,000 bushels.

Of the world's wheat crop, the United States produced during the last crop year, 1887, about 450,000,000 bushels or 21.5 per cent. of the crop, and if, as estimated, about 250,000,000 bushels wheat will be required by the countries having a deficiency, the United States will be the source of supply of upwards of 104,000,000 bushels, or 41.6 per cent., of the estimated deficiency.

Of the countries having a deficit, the United Kingdom, it is estimated, will require 136,000,000 bushels and, it appears from the official statistics, has imported during the five years ending 1886 an average of nearly 140,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour.

The following tables exhibit the imports of wheat and flour into the United Kingdom since 1840, and the countries whence imported; also the relative position which each country has occupied as a source of supply to the British market during each year of that period.

These tables show that the demand of the British market is a very important factor in the wheat industry, and that the requirements beyond the home supply are rapidly increasing, having about doubled since 1870.

The table exhibiting the share of each country in the export trade of wheat and flour to the United Kingdom shows that the United States increased its export from 35 per cent. of the whole trade in 1871 to 65 per cent. in 1880, but that its share has since fallen as low as 47 per cent., rallying during the year 1886 to 58 per cent. Russia seems to be losing its hold as a source of wheat supply to the British market, while British India is making rapid strides in increasing its share of this very important trade.

Quantities of wheat and wheat flour imported into the United Kingdom from the principal and other foreign countries and British dependencies during each year ending December 31, from 1840 to 1886, inclusive.

The exports of provisions, including meat and dairy products, have materially declined during recent years, and the fall has extended to exports of all animal products and to cattle. During the year 1881 we exported 185,707 cattle, valued at $14,304,103, and during the last fiscal year 106,459 cattle, valued at $9,172,136, a decrease from 1881 in value of $5,131,967; or a decline in quantity of 42.7 per cent. and in value of 35.9 per cent. Beef products show for the same period a decrease of 19.7 per cent. in value. Since 1881 pork products, including bacon, hams, pork, and lard, show a decline of 32.9 per cent. in quantity and of 41.1 per cent. in value. The exports of butter and cheese also participate in the general decrease of exports of provisions.

Our exports of bacon, hams, and pork to Germany have never been as large as many seem to suppose. During the year 1873 our exports of bacon and hams to Germany reached the highest point, amounting to 65,708,546 pounds. The average yearly value of exports of bacon and hams to Germany during the ten years from 1871 to 1880, inclusive, amounted to only $2,291,967. The exports of pork proper during this period were very small, averaging annually less than $100,000 in value.

The imports of American lard are not prohibited by Germany, and we export large quantities of it to that country. The largest exports of lard to Germany occurred in 1879, reaching nearly 90,000,000 pounds; and in 1886 we exported to Germany over 58,000,000 pounds of lard, valued at $3,963,908.

It will be seen from this table that the exports of illuminating mineral oil, with few fluctuations, have steadily increased during the years mentioned, reaching the highest point in 1882, when they amounted to 488,213,033 gallons, valued at $44,588,854. During the fiscal year 1887 we exported in round numbers 481,000,000 gallons, valued at $37,300,000.

The value of the exports of illuminating oil to Europe during 1877 represented 80 per cent. and to Asia and Oceanica 8.8 per cent. of the total value of our exports of this commodity to all countries, but in 1887 the value of our exports to Europe was 69.5 per cent. and to Asia and Oceanica 20 per cent. of the total value of our exports of illuminating oil to all countries.

The following will forcibly illustrate the fall in the price of this commodity:

We exported in 1877 262,441,844 gallons, valued at $55,401,132, and in 1887, 480,845,811 gallons, the value of which was only $37,303,997, showing an increase in quantity of 218,403,967 gallons, or 83 per cent., and the remarkable decline in value of $18,097,135, or 33 per cent.

Exports of leaf tobacco.

The exports of leaf tobacco show a marked increase as compared with the year 1881. We exported during 1887 293,666,995 pounds, valued at $25,637,983, or 66,640,390 pounds more than in the year 1881. The increase in quantity was 29 per cent., and in the value 37 per cent. Of the total quantity exported in 1887 Europe took 83 per cent.

Exports of refined sugar.

The exports of refined sugar have largely increased since 1881. During that fiscal year we exported 22,227,857 pounds, valued at $2,049,982, and during the last fiscal year 190,672,154 pounds, valued at $11,435,765. During the year 1885 our exports of refined sugar were the largest in the history of our export trade, amounting to 252,579,077 pounds. Of the total quantity exported last year, 85 per cent. was shipped to Europe.

GENERAL FEATURES OF OUR IMPORTS OF MERCHANDISE DURING THE FISCAL YEAR 1887.

During the last fiscal year the value of our imports of merchandise amounted to $692,319,768, of which the value of free goods was $234,221,131 and the value of dutiable goods $458,098,637.

Of the total imports, the value of manufactured articles was $412,279,077, and of crude or partially manufactured articles $280,040,691. (See page 46 and Appendix No. 18.) The total value of imports was $56,883,632 in excess of that of 1886, the increase in the value of free goods being $22,061,835 and of dutiable goods $34,821,797.

The imported articles which exhibited the largest increase in value (see page 42) were coffee, iron and steel, silk and manufactures of silk, woolen goods, and jewelry. It will be observed that the increase in imports occurred principally in crude or unmanufactured articles necessary as materials for use in our manufactures. This is an encouraging feature of the expansion of our imports and indicates an improved condition of our manufactures and trade. There was considerable falling off in the values of imports of sugar and molasses, hides and skins, clothing, wools, seeds, leather, and barley. Our import trade with the United Kingdom during the last fiscal year increased $10,813,000, with France $4,690,000, with Germany $11,493,000, and with all Europe $33,190,000. During the last fiscal year 23.84 per cent. of our imports came from the United Kingdom, and one-half of our exports were to that country. Our import trade with Europe comprised 56 per cent. of our entire imports; and our export trade to Europe comprised 83 per cent. of our entire exports, all other countries taking only 17 per cent. of them.

Leading articles of imports.

The following table shows the values of merchandise imported into the United States during the years ending June 30, 1882 and 1887, respectively, with the percentage of the aggregate value for 1887 of the imports of each class of merchandise. Comparison is made with the year 1882 for the reason that it was the year of largest imports.

IMPORTS ENTERED FOR CONSUMPTION AND DUTIES COLLECTED THEREON.a

The following table shows the values of imported merchandise entered for consumption, including entries for immediate consumption and withdrawals from warehouse for consumption, and the duties collected thereon, during the fiscal years 1884, 1885, 1886, and 1887:

a Imports for consumption embrace imported articles entered for immediate consumption and imported articles withdrawn from warehouse for consumption. General imports embrace imported articles entered at the custom-houses for immediate consumption and imported articles entered for warehouse. The general imports and the imports entered for consumption for any period will always differ to the extent that the value of entries for warehouse for the period differs from the value of withdrawals from warehouse for consumption. The term "entry for consumption" is the technical name of the entry of imports made at the custom-house, and does not imply that the goods are actually consumed, but simply that they have been delivered into the custody of the importer and that the duties have been paid on the dutiable portion. Portions of these goods may be subsequently exported.

b Principally duty equivalent to internal-revenue tax, payable when returned from abroad.

The amounts of revenue collected on dutiable merchandise entered for consumption from specific rates of duty and ad valorem rates of duty, respectively, during the years ending June 30, 1883 (the year prior to those affected by the tariff act of March 3, 1883, except with respect to sugar), 1886, and 1887, have been as follows:

Years.	Value of dutiable merchandise.	Ordinary duty collected.	Collected under specific rates.	Collected under ad valorem rates.
	Dollars.	Dollars.	Per cent.	Per cent.
1883	493, 916, 384	209, 659, 699	56	44
1886	413, 778, 055	188, 379, 397	60. 5	39. 5
1887	450, 325, 322	212, 032, 424	61. 3	38. 7

The total value of imported merchandise entered for consumption in the United States during the year ending June 30, 1887, was $683,-418,981, exceeding the total of 1886, viz, $625,308,814, by $58,110,167, or 9.3 per centum. Of the aggregate value, $233,093,659 represents the total value of merchandise free of duty, and $450,325,322 that of dutiable commodities, as against $211,530,759 and $413,778,055, respectively, in the preceding year.

The increase of $58,110,167 in the total value of imports entered for consumption is found principally in the following articles and classes of articles:

The increase in the value of coffee is caused rather by the enhanced price of this commodity than by increased consumption, the average import price having advanced from 7.5 cents per pound in 1886 to 10.7 cents per pound in 1887.

The increase in the amount of ordinary duty collected, from $188,379,397 in 1886 to $212,032,424 in 1887, viz., $23,653,027, originates in the following classes of articles:

Classes of articles.	Duty collected.		Increase.
	1886.	1887.
Sugar, sugar candy, and molasses	51,778,948	58,016,686	6,237,738

The increase in the value of, and duties collected on, imports entered for consumption seems to be about equally divided among the different groups of articles, classified according to the condition in which, and the uses for which, they were imported, viz:

Classes.	Percentage of totals.
	Value.		Duty collected.
	1887.	1886.	1887.	1886.
Articles of food, and animals	30.94	31.38	32.07	32.42
Articles in a crude condition which enter into the processes of domestic industry	24.28	23.04	9.23	6.83
Articles wholly or partially manufactured, for use as materials in the manufactures and mechanic arts	11.66	12.56	9.62	10.68
Articles manufactured, ready for consumption	19.90	20.19	29.19	29.54
Articles of voluntary use, luxuries, etc	13.22	12.83	19.89	20.53

The increase in the value of free articles of voluntary use, luxuries, etc., from $2,204,725 in 1886 to $3,805,306 in 1887, is due to the increased amount of domestic spirits brought back.

Comparing the statistics of the imported merchandise entered for consumption in 1887 with like data for the year ending June 30, 1882, the latest year prior to the effects of the tariff act of March 3, 1883, we find the following distinctive features:

	1882.		1887.
	Total value.	Per cent. of total.	Total value.	Per cent. of total.
	Dollars.		Dollars.
Free merchandise	210, 721, 981	29. 4	233, 093, 659	34. 1
Dutiable merchandise	505, 491, 967	70. 6	450, 325, 322	65. 9

The increase in the percentage of free goods entered for consumption is largely attributable to the transfer to the free list of certain fruits and unground spices, and the reduction of duty on certain other fruits, and on seeds and spices.

The average ad valorem rates of duty collected on the several articles of dutiable merchandise entered for consumption in 1882 and 1887, respectively, compare as follows:

Increase in ad valorem rates.

	1882.	1887.
	Per cent.	Per cent.
Sugar and molasses	52. 05	78. 15
Cotton, manufactures of	39. 08	40. 17
Glass and glassware	56. 94	59. 01

Spirits, distilled	142. 79	154. 01
Wines	49. 82	54. 90
Salt	45. 82	49. 92

The increase in the average ad valorem rates of duty on sugar, molasses, malt liquors, spirits, and salt is mainly due to a decrease in the import prices of these articles, the rates of duty being specific, and in the case of tobacco and wines to increased tariff rates.

Decrease in ad valorem rates.

	1882.	1887.
	Per cent.	Per cent.
Wools, raw	37. 30	36. 08
Wool, manufactures of	68. 12	67. 21

Paper, and manufactures of	34. 69	21. 39
Musical instruments	30. 00	25. 00
Rice	98. 54	64. 01

The decrease, with the exception of that on rice, is largely the result of the reduction of rates made by the act of March 3, 1883, and in the case of rice is due to the increased percentage importation of granulated rice, the duty on which is only 20 per cent. ad valorem.

Imports entered for consumption during the year ending June 30, 1887, with accompanying diagram, showing the relative values of the respective classes of free and dutiable imports, and the relation of the duty collected on each class to its value.

This table does not show the cost of the imports landed on our shores. The cost of coverings, commissions, etc., excluded from the dutiable value of imports, by the act of March 3, 1883, also freight charges from the country of importation, are not included, the aggregate amount of which can not be reliably estimated.

LEADING CLASSES OF IMPORTS ON WHICH DUTY IS COLLECTED.

The following table shows the per cent. of the total duty collected each year from 1867 to 1887, inclusive, on the leading articles of dutiable imports. The duty collected on the eleven articles and classes of articles named in the table has varied during the period named from 68 per cent. to 81 per cent. of the total duty collected annually on all articles.

Sugar is the leading article from which our customs revenue is collected, followed by manufactures of wool, manufactures of iron and steel, manufactures of silk, and manufactures of cotton, in the order named.

Per cent. of total duty collected on the leading articles and classes of articles of imported merchandise entered for consumption each year ending June 30, from 1867 to 1887, inclusive:

a Received and shipped.

Only 14 per cent. of our foreign trade, measured by its value, is carried in home vessels, while 81 per cent. is carried in foreign vessels. Only 7 per cent. of our foreign trade is conducted in steamers bearing our national flag, while 68 per cent. of that trade, with all its profits and the employment of capital and labor, is conducted in alien vessels. The constant and rapid decline of our share of the transportation of the commodities exchanged between this and foreign countries will be seen by reference to Appendix No. 19. There was a decline in the proportion of value of commodities carried in our own vessels from 75 per cent. in 1856 to 14 per cent. in 1887.

TONNAGE ENTERED AND CLEARED IN THE FOREIGN TRADE OF THE UNITED STATES.

The tonnage entered at ports of the United States in its foreign trade during the year ending June 30, 1887, as compared with 1886, was as follows:

The tonnage entered at the principal ports of the United States in the foreign trade during the fiscal year 1887 was as follows:

Ports.	American.	Foreign.	Total.	Per cent. of total.
New York, N. Y	987,677	5,099,433	6,087,110	38.49

Total	3,365,516	12,450,767	15,816,283	100.00

The proportion of American and foreign vessels entered during the last two years has remained the same, the foreign tonnage representing 78.6 per cent. in 1886 and 78.8 per cent. in 1887 of the total tonnage entered in the foreign trade.

While the tonnage entered at sea ports shows an increase of 1,301,916 tons, or 10.6 per cent., the American tonnage entered at lake ports increased 5.3 per cent., but the British tonnage decreased 26.5 per cent., being a net decline of 21.4 per cent. in the tonnage entered at lake ports.

IMMIGRATION.

The total number of immigrants arrived in the United States from foreign countries other than the Dominion of Canada and Mexico during the year ending June 30, 1887, was 490,106 against 334,203 during the preceding fiscal year, being an increase of 155,906, or 46.6 per cent.

Of the total number of immigrants arrived more than 93 per cent. came from countries in Europe. As will be seen from the following table, each foreign country, with the exception of China, had its share in the increased emigration to the United States. The arrivals of immigants of the several nationalities show an increase in 1887, as compared with the arrivals in 1886, as follows:

The most striking feature of this table is the information that the immigration from Italy has increased from 21,295 in 1886 to 47,532 in 1887, an increase of 123.2 per cent. in a single year.

Tables Nos. 21 and 22 of the Appendix furnish interesting data of the immigration for a series of years.

The following table shows the number and nationalities of immigrants arrived in the United States during the last fiscal year as compared with the fiscal year 1886:

DEFECTS IN STATISTICAL LAWS.

In my Annual Reports on Foreign Commerce for the fiscal years 1885 and 1886 I called attention to the defects in the statistical laws in the following language:

This Bureau, under my direction, is earnestly striving to collect as fully as possible the statistics of our foreign commerce, but the law under which it is operating was passed in 1821, when our foreign commerce in merchandise amounted to only $109,017,157, and at a period anterior to the introduction of steam as a motive power for vessels or land vehicles. This law has remained on the statute-books substantially as it was passed in 1821, when there was little or no traffic across our land frontiers, and provides no means by which collectors or other agents of the Government, through whom our statistics are collected, can procure data in regard to—

(1) Exports of domestic commodities from the country by railway cars or other land vehicles.

(2) Of immigrants and passengers arriving in the country by railway cars or other land vehicles.

(3) Of emigrants and passengers leaving the country either by land conveyance or by water.

(4) Of the movement of commodities and vessels in our coastwise trade.

(5) Of the products of our marine fisheries brought into ports of the United States, except such products as are brought from the distant whale fisheries.

With respect to exports, the law in question provides only the means of collecting the statistics of exports to foreign countries in vessels, and a later enactment provides for the collection of statistics of immigrants arriving from foreign countries in vessels alone.

No statistics of exports by railways are now procured except from the officers of a few railway companies. The officers of companies of railroads leading into Mexico, and of several important routes leading into Canada utterly refuse to give collectors of customs any data in regard to the exports over their roads, claiming that they are not required by law to do so.

Full and correct statistics of our trade with Canada and with Mexico are especially important at this time, when our trade interests with those countries are the frequent subject of legislation or negotiation.

Experience has deepened my convictions in regard to the necessity for some legislation on the subject, and I therefore earnestly renew my recommendations as above set forth. A bill was drafted and submitted through you to the last Congress, which embodies my views on this subject.

FORCE OF THE BUREAU OF STATISTICS, AND ORGANIZATION.

The organization of this Bureau and the force thereof are as follows:

	Males.	Females.	Total.
Chief of Bureau	1	.....	1
Chief clerk	1	.....	1
Division of examination and revision	4	1	5
Division of compilation	13	4	17
Miscellaneous division	2	2	4
Library and files	.....	2	2
Stenographer and type-writer to Chief of Bureau	.....	1	1
Stenographer and clerk to chief clerk	1	.....	1
Total clerical force	20	10	30
Laborers and messengers	3	1	4
Total employés	23	11	34

The present force of the Bureau has been barely sufficient to perform the general duties imposed upon it, and the clerks available for difficult statistical work have been overtasked. While the duties of the Bureau are, by earnest and unremitting effort, performed with reasonable promptitude and thoroughness, it is very desirable that the usefulness of the Bureau be increased by enlarging the scope of the work performed by it in the direction of the investigation and publication of statistics in regard to special lines of commerce, similar to the investigation and report on Wool and Manufactures of, recently prepared and published under my direction. In order to do this no amendment is required to existing laws, but it is necessary that the force for the purpose be increased in number and efficiency.

With the progress of our country in commerce and intelligence there is an increasing and wider demand, not only for commercial information but for more elaborate and complete data than were called for in past years. In order to keep pace with the rapidly growing demands made by the various departments of the Government and by the public upon this office for information which is peculiar to its objects and duties, it is absolutely necessary for this office to have an increase of force, as the preparation of such information requires ability and peculiar fitness for statistical work. I therefore earnestly recommend that Congress be asked to make an appropriation for two chiefs of division at a salary of $2,000 each, for the following reasons:

(1) This is the only bureau of the Treasury Department which has no chiefs of division with salaries over $1,800. A provision for the two chiefs of division asked for will place this Bureau on a plane with other bureaus of the Department, all of which have a larger proportion of chiefs of division with salaries of $2,000 and upwards than is here recommended.

(2) Because the duties of the chiefs of the principal divisions of this office are arduous and require for their proper performance ability of as high an order, at least, as is required for the average duties of chiefs of divisions in other offices of the Department receiving salaries ranging from $2,000 to $2,250 per annum.

It affords me pleasure to acknowledge the cordial and earnest co-operation which the clerks of this Bureau have accorded me in the performance of the duties, responsible and rapidly increasing, imposed upon me by law, and logically growing out of the functions of the office—an office which I have earnestly endeavored to conduct in such manner as to increase its usefulness and importance by promoting the best interests of the people.

Respectfully, yours,

Wm. F. Switzler.

Chief of Bureau.

Hon. C. S. FAIRCHILD,
Secretary of the Treasury.

NOTE.—Owing to the absence of law providing the means for collecting the statistics of exports by cars and other land vehicles, the exports to the Dominion of Canada by land carriage are very incomplete, and those overland to Mexico are entirely wanting. The deficiency in the exports to the Dominion of Canada is estimated to be at least $20,000,000, and to Mexico, by the editor of the Mexican Financier, at $6,000,000.

NOTE.—Owing to the absence of law providing the means for collecting the statistics of reports by cars and other land vehicles, the exports to the Dominion of Canada by land carriage are very incomplete, and those overland to Mexico are entirely wanting. The deficiency in the exports to the Dominion of Canada is estimated at not less than $20,000,000, and to Mexico, by the editor of the Mexican Financier, at about $6,000,000.
